Glendale Public Library Presents Award-Winning Documentary: An Outrage

Glendale, Ariz. – In honor of Black History Month, the Glendale Public Library is hosting a virtual viewing and discussion of the award-winning documentary An Outrage on Tuesday, February 23, from 6 - 7:30 p.m. This thought-provoking film focuses on the time period from the end of the Civil War until the middle of the twentieth century, when racial terror uprooted and claimed thousands of lives in the American South.

Following the 30-minute documentary, join a virtual meet-and-greet with filmmakers Hannah Ayers and Lance Warren, Emmy-nominated co-directors of Field Studio. They will discuss creating this film and how it has become a powerful tool to spark conversation about racism's devastating consequences.

Registration for this online event is required. Visit <http://bit.ly/anoutragefilm> to register and receive an access link. For more information about this and upcoming events, visit www.glendaleazlibrary.com.
